rane, who has received the regular Lomination of Mozart Hall, the Union and the Breckthridge conventions as ce for representative of the Sixth Congressional district in Congress, assembled in mass meeting at eight o'clock last evening. The hour fixed for the opening of the ceedings was half-past seven o'clock, but circum-ces prevented the original programme being carried out. The large basement hall of the Cooper Institute was prowded, and great interest was apparently felt in the easion. The platform was also filled with mottoes and a ne banner of the Seventeenth Ward Douglas Club. A Bure cannon was placed outsite, and its deep booming was schoed in the large halt. Bonfires were also lighted outside, and were kept bright and lively by the boys.

Resolved, That the dangers which apparently threaten with injury the federal institutions of the country appeal to all conservative and Union shiding citizens to rally under the one comprehensive and only democratic banser, inscribed in the spirit of true patriolism with "Union for the sake of the Union," and with the names of Hernan T. Bedfeld and Greene C. Bromson.
Resolved, That as a generous scartifice of conflicting opinions has produced united action upon one electoral ticket in opposition to Abraham Lincoln, as as to effect the rescue of the constitution from the perils of republican sway, it is an imperative duty that a similar sacrifice should be made for the concentration of all national conservative and Union men for the support of a national conservative and Union men for the support of a national conservative and the name of the capacity, industry and his attachment to the interests of the city and of the people, he has been the efficient friend and advocate of the commercial classes; he has consistently spoken and voted for the admission to free cocupation of suitable portions of the public lands of all heads of native or foreign born families; he introduced and procured a law for the proteotion of de succless and unprotected female emigrants in the solitude of their cessa passage to our shores; he has resitted and resists the system of performing the work of the public stores by contract; and though by this last act be and his friends here incurred the heatility of the contractors and their friends, yet by his general course has he atteffed and convinced the people of his integrity, his laborious industry, and his eminent fitness for the place which he holds; we, therefore, Morart men, Brockin-ridge men, Bell and Everett men, and Cuton men from all polibical organizations wherey, who think a tried, faithful and capable representative necess consideration.

Resolved, That we continue to oppose the contract by which the labor at the public stores is placed at the discosal of contractors, for the reasons so well and strongly lated in a report wainst it, presented to Congress at its set session, and which was written by Hoo. John Cochane. Notwingtanding those of the laborers who are his riends have been dismissed from work, and notwith sanding that he and they friendly to him may continue of feel the displosaure of the contractors, yet we will sustain his opposition to the contract with our countenance and support.

londly called upon to open the meeting by a once in substance as follows .- He thanked them for the oner conferred upon him in thus choosing him as the Chairman, and stated that though he was unprepared for to support and further the progress of the democratic uppert and further the progress of the democratic ty. He had, from the days of his youth, supported constitution, and would continue so to do as as it was in his power—a constitution that had been ned and defended by our forefathers, and was re-ced and arranged that under its protection the lion the lamb could truly be down together. The consti-or had been defended in past days, and would the bis who celended it then allow it to be abased now; it was unpossible. man, and was listened to with great attention. He came forward and said he had just come from a Usion meeting in Brooklyn, where he was speaking against the election of Lircoin. He was an old line whig, but still he endorsed the fusion movement. Bell did not run against the democrate, nor did the democrate run against the democrate, nor did the democrate run against the Bell men; they ran together, so as to be able to defeat Lincoin. He stated that the South was willing to vote fir any Northern man provided his fleg streamed over the inneu and was not merely the candidate of seventeen States. He himself was a Usion man, and would live and die for it, nailing his celera to the mast. Any one who would push him out of the Union boat should have to do it by force, and even then he would leave his mark on the gunwale as he went over. Should the vengeance of 6od inflict the Union with the election of Lincoln, the South would do it in the Union and not out of it. It is only an toral, for the fieth must quiver when the pieces tear, and led must fellew the cut of the knife. Upon New York depends the election, and she must preserve the Union of the States. See has the power and the will, and it will be seen that all will go well, and she will roll back the wave of fannticism. He expressed his regrets at not be ing able to hear Mr. Cochrane, and draw his remarks to a lose by again urging upon New York the necessity o prompt action.

Several other gentlemen addressed the meeting, and at a late hour they adjourned.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ELECTORS. By an advertisement published in another column, it names on the poll lists has arrived, and it therefore behouses people to look well to their rights and duties in time for the November election. It is well for all those who are entitled to vote to bear in mind the fact that the who are cultiled to vote to bear in mind the fact that the November and not the December poil list will be taken as the legal register of voters for the next election. The Pecember list is of course the latest; nevertheless, by a curiosity of legislation, the oldest list is the one that will be copied in compiling the registration for next November, so that such electors as reported their names laber, so that such electors as reported their names laber, so that such electors as reported their names laber, and neglected to do so previous to the last December, and neglected to do so previous to the last the cause their names to be re-registered at the present time within the time prescribed by law. The register of November, 1869, showed 103,450 voters, of which only 58,027 voted; while at the December election the whole vote stood 18,741. Eccors would do well to look to this matter in season.

OUR MEDICAL COLLEGES.

The New York Homosopathic Medical College was for nal-ly inaugurated last evening. This institution is a new one. In its design it differs from ordinary medical col-leges in the extensive scope of its instruction, and the fundamental law which underlies its teachings. The confeetly healthy subject. had not been before. Now, when the medical schools of this land and all other lands had falled to fulfil the measure of the wants of communities, and when the sickly and dying multitudes were praying and groaming out their latest breath for reliet, for something better than destructive drugging, this institution, in the fulness of its benedicent and connervative influences for the promotion of life and comfort, was seen to spring into existence, "with healing on its wings," and offer to the deepairing multitudes the boon of teaching adapted to the redemption of man from the thraidom of suffering and misery. Dr. Barlow, in offering some suggestions as to the system of instruction, dwelt upon the necessity of the trusces making the institution a model of order and decorum, spoke about the nocessity for union and harmony among themselves and the faculty. He warned the faculty to beware of the leaven of the allopathic colleges, which was an unchemical combination of errors, assumptions and hypothesis. As regards anatomy he suggested that a great part of the course should not be passed in lecturing upon "dry bones," as was quite too much the case in most colleges, to the almost entire neglect of the brain and nerves. The importance of the brain and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and nerves he proceeded to elucidate in an abin and the setting the law of phramal apprehension of disease, the law of temporal aggravations, the law binding and controlling the nectualizate or translation of diseases, the law of temporal aggravations, the law of temporal aggravation, he reminded them that, when they should have prevailed, and jee louding and controlling the nectualization of the in

ALLEGED ROBBERT BY A SERVANT GIRL -On Sunday servant girl, named Ernestine Vanino, who was in the employment of Mr. Adolph Roop, residing at No. 43 Sond employment of Mr. Adolph Roop, residing at No. 43 Bond street, was taken into custody upon a charge of stealing several rich silk and velved foreses, worth collectively from $400 to $600. It would appear that on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Roop left the house in charge of Ernestine, while they went out, and that en their return they found the girl absent and the dresses now act. The police were put on her track, and it was afterwards accordanced that she had gone to the house of a Mrs. Mark, No. 20 Greenwich street, New York, where she had formerly lived. She is said to have represented to Mrs. Mark that she had run away in consequence of her brother wishing to place her in a nunnery. Exchanging her rich clothing for plainer garments, she personded firs. Mark to accompany to Brooklyn for a trunk, in which the greater part of her plunder was contained, and which she had left at a lager bier saloon in Atlantic street. On conveying the truck to the South ferry, she girl was recognized by a friend of Mr. Roop and given into cestody, while the officers accompanied Mrs. Mark over the ferry to New York, where they obtained the dress that had been set there. In the meantime Ernestine was conveyed to the First precinct station house, where she was locked up Yes terday she was brought before Justice Cornwell, who committed her for trial at the Court of Sessions. The accreaded is said to be connected with a wealthy German family, and it is further stated that if a Mark had no suspicion of ber dishonesty, as she suspiced the piri nad received a remittance from her relatives, which accounted for the rich manuer in which she was dressed.

The Ciry Hall, Mrs. And. Per Popairs, general renovation and cleaning up of the City Hall, which have been the manuer in which she was dressed.

THE CITY HALL REPAIRS -The repairs, general repoys tion and cleaning up of the City Hall, which have been progressing for some time, beginning at the basement, have now reached the clock and bell tower, on waich a cosfiold is erected. The workmen and laborers, about twenty-due in number, under the sharge of Mr. Feter Engley, are now engaged on the tower, white sweezal masses are at work on the steps leading to the vestibule. As the work approaches completion, the burbling begins to assume a decent appearance, worthy of the anter city of the metropolis.

Common Corners .- The Board mot posterday afternoon, Alderman Kalbbelsch, Fresident, in the chair. A communication from the Brooklyn City Bailroad, requesting that no grant of railroad rights be made till the company shall have had an opportunity to be heard on the matter, was laid on the table. A long discussion of an unprofit able nature enseed, on a proposition to award a contract for the building of a boure for a hock and incure company. The contract was eventually awarded to Marshall & McGuire, for $2.000. A motion by Alderman Dayton to raise the salary of the Mayor to the extent of $4500 admittional to his present pay was lost, nine members voting for it, and nine against it. The ordinary routine basiness was transacted, and the Board adjourned.
